B2B white label partners

There are several partners, who we cooperate with and via whom we offer our flights' content.

Within the scope of those co-operations, there are no exceptions in handling on our end - standard ETG processes apply, including SLAs, templates, and service fees.

The customers are redirected to Gotogate branded websites and fulfill the booking of the flights there (for details on the booking flow, check content related to each partner).

BookBarbados

Who is BookBarbados

Partner's website: <https://bookbarbados.com/>

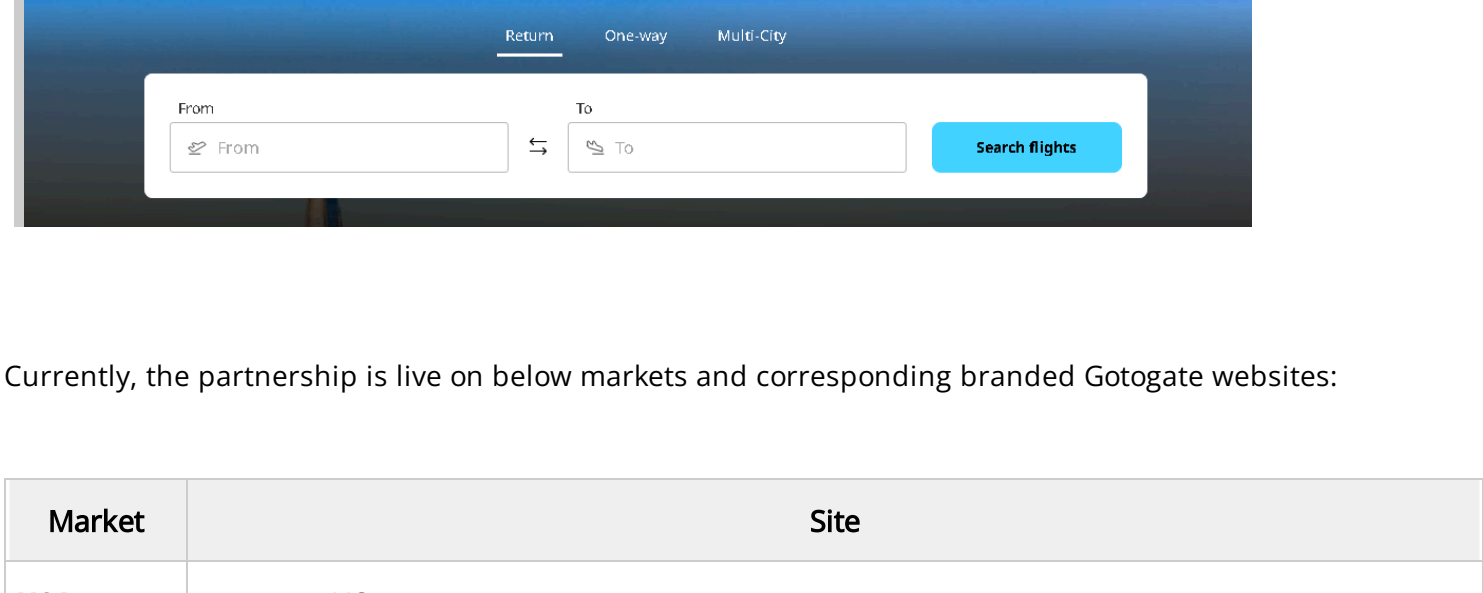

BookBarbados is a travel site, focused on travel to Barbados.

We at Etraveli are currently cooperating with them through a white label solution, meaning that they simply send customers over to our sites and get a commission for that.

The Gotogate sites that those customers land on have been adjusted such that the brand is "BookBarbados in cooperation with Gotogate" instead of Gotogate. But under the hood, the site is just our own Gotogate site. We also handle customer service for any flight(s) purchased.

What does the booking flow look like

The customer selects Flights tab on Bookbarbados site and is straight away redirected to our branded website, where he/she proceeds with flight search and booking fulfillment:

Currently, the partnership is live on below markets and corresponding branded Gotogate websites:

Ireland	gotogate_IE
Great Britain	gotogate_UK
Canada	gotogate_CA

Rome2Rio

Who is Rome2Rio

Partner's website: <https://www.rome2rio.com/>

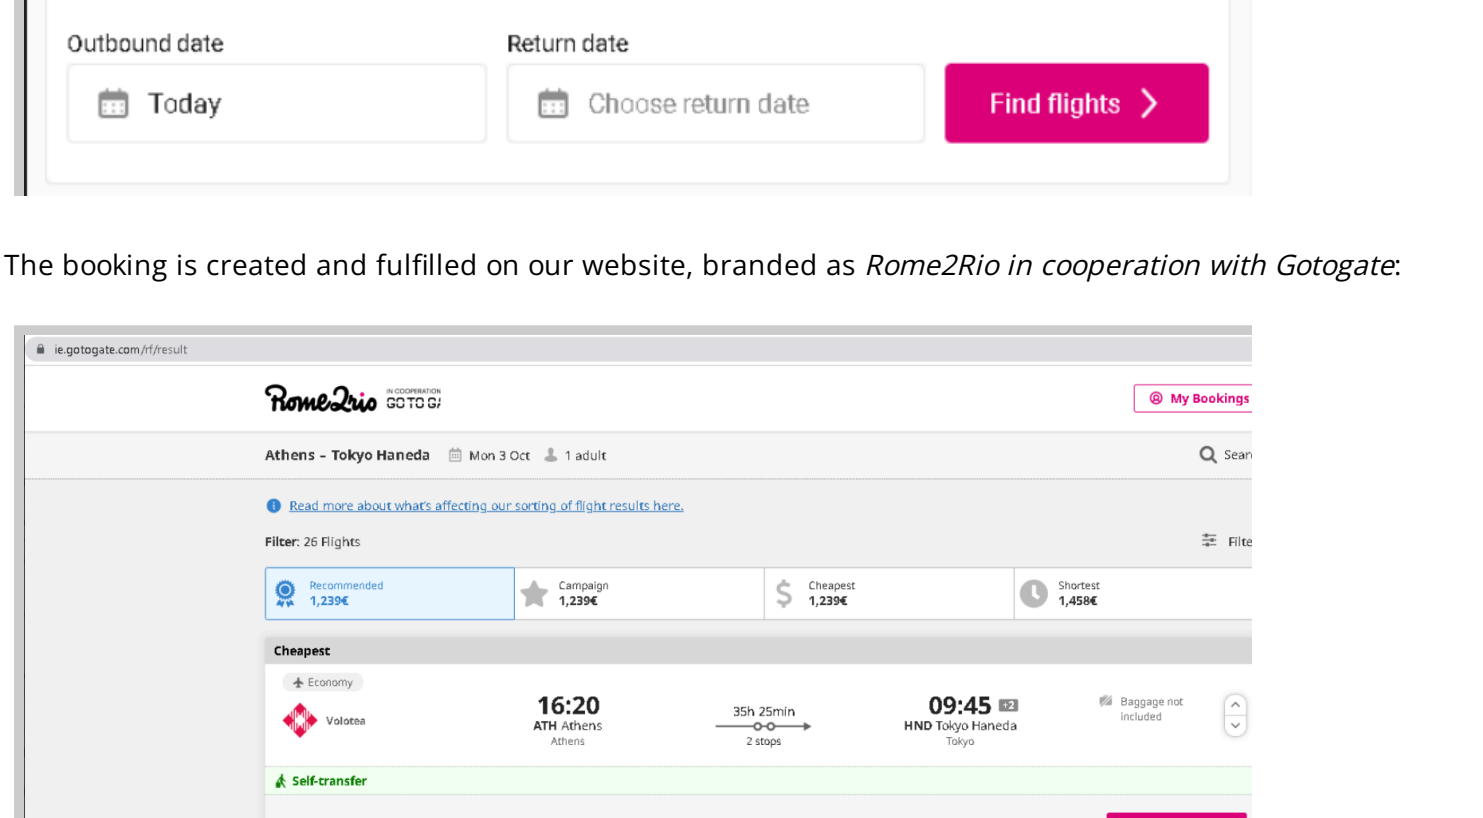

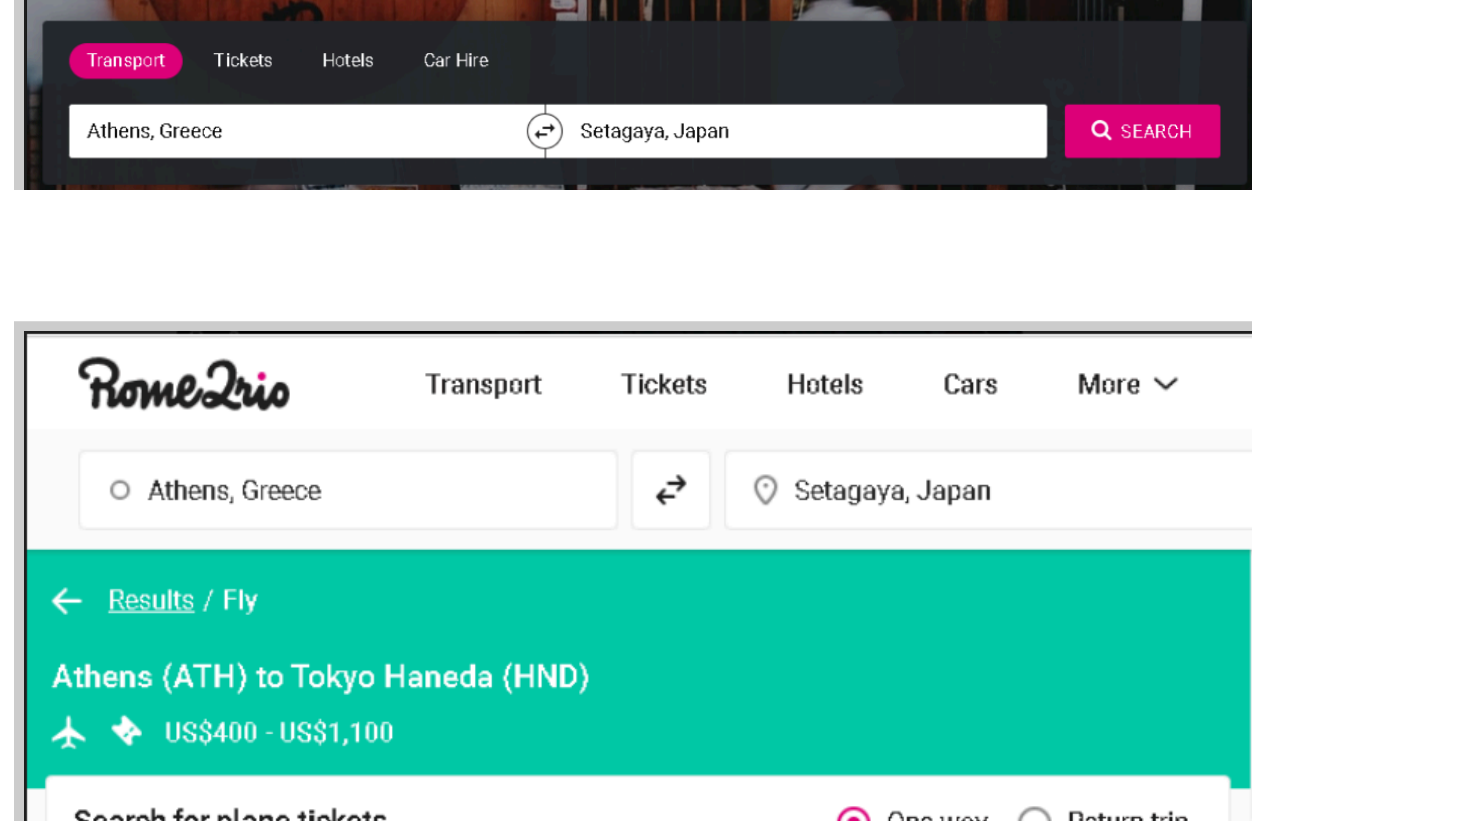

Rome2rio is a global "transport journey planner". The company is based in Australia and owned by the German online travel comparison and booking website Omio.

We at Etraveli are currently cooperating with them through a white label solution, meaning that they simply send customers over to our sites and get a commission for that.

The Gotogate sites that those customers land on have been adjusted such that the brand is "Rome2rio in cooperation with Gotogate" instead of Gotogate. Colors have been changed as well, in line with their branding. But under the hood, the site is just our own Gotogate site. We also handle customer service for any flight(s) purchased.

What does the booking flow look like

An initial search is performed on the R2R website via the Transport tab:

The booking is created and fulfilled on our website, branded as Rome2Rio in cooperation with Gotogate:

RCI, RCI Generic, Tripbeat

Who is RCI

Partner's websites:

<https://www.tripbeat.com>

<https://www.rci.com>

RCI is a global travel company, operating through multiple brands such as RCI and Tripbeat. Their own sites are member-only.

We at Etraveli are currently cooperating with them through a white label solution, meaning that they simply send customers over to our sites and get a commission for that.

The Gotogate sites that those customers land on have been adjusted such that the brand is "RCI/Tripbeat in cooperation with Gotogate" instead of Gotogate. Colors have been changed as well, in line with their branding. But under the hood, the site is just our own Gotogate site. We also handle customer service for any flight(s) purchased.

What does the booking flow look like

We aim to cooperate with three RCI brands:

- Tripbeat
- RCI
- RCI Generic

All the brands are based on a membership model: the deals are available only to customers who have a membership account on the partner's portals.

When it comes to flights' content, the customers are redirected to our website branded with the partner's logo to create and fulfill the booking.

Currently, the partnership with Tripbeat is live on below markets and corresponding branded websites:
