

Different currencies

In some fare rules, the airline penalty is stated in several currencies.

REFUND

BEFORE DEPARTURE-LESS 150USD/100EUR

AFTER DEPARTURE- LESS APPLICABLE ONE-WAY FARE

AND A PENALTY OF 150USD/100EUR APPLIES.ONE-WAY

FARES WITH FARE TYPE ES CAN NOT BE USED FOR REFUND CALCULATION

For example, this ET fare rule states the cancellation penalty in USD and EUR, the ticket was issued in the PAR office and the departure city is SFO(USA)

To calculate the applicable cancellation penalty we should take the origin currency (USA) and convert it to ticket office currency(PAR) based on order date conversion.

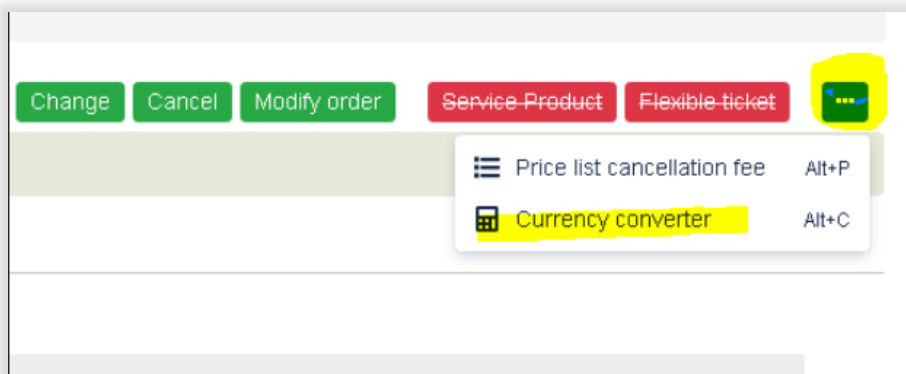

Consequently, we should convert 150 USD to EUR to obtain the correct cancellation penalty.

If needed convert to pax currency with the same conversion date.

Also, the days of converting currencies in the GDS are over, as we can easily do this in the currency converter now.

You can add as many currencies and amounts as you want, and the feature will summarize for you and give you the total in the customer's currency. It is also possible to use it as a calculator which is also well needed when you need to calculate fees for several persons or if you need to add up our extra markup fee for ancillaries. A big plus is that you can tab your way into the tool as well.
