RA statuses you may come upon:

- Authorized: The RA raised has been checked by the airline and they have authorized the refund to us. The fact that the status is 'Authorized' does not necessarily mean that the amount is paid back to us already. Usually the refund to us needs approximately 8 weeks to be credited back to us, but there are still exception airlines that might take longer so please do not take the timeframe as a guaranteed rule.
 - If the RA is authorized close to the date that you are checking the status, no action needs to be taken. Please advise the custom to wait.
 - If the RA status has been authorized for more than 8 weeks and the passenger has not received any refund yet, you may escalate the order to Manager, Team Leader or FL Coordinator to advise you for further action.

- Billed: The RA raised has been authorized and the amount is refunded to us already.
 - If the RA is 'Billed' close to the date that you are checking the status, no action needs to be taken. Please advise the custom to wait.
 - If the RA status has been 'Billed' for more than 8 weeks and the passenger has not received any refund yet, you may escalate the order to Manager, Team Leader or FL Coordinator to advise you for further action.
- Rejected: The RA raised has been checked by the airline and they have rejected the reason for refund. Almost at all times, there is justification of the reason they have not accepted it. You may escalate the order to your Manager, Team Leader or FL Coordinator so that they can escalate this to SL.
- Pending: The RA is not yet checked from the airline, advise the customer to wait. No need for further escalation.
- Sent to Airline: Same as pending, the RA is not yet checked from the airline, advise the customer to wait. No need for further escalation.
- Under investigation: The RA claimed is currently checked by the airline, advise the customer to wait. No need for further escalation.
- Changed by agent: The RA claimed is currently checked by the airline, advise the customer to wait. No need for further escalation.

After collecting the required information, please inform the customer accordingly for the status of his request and proceed with any further actions.

Escalation required: If we receive a great complaint, which is justified (ex. extreme delay), you may escalate the order to your Manager, Team Leader or FL Coordinator so that they can escalate this to SL. Please remember that critical thinking is required for such kinds of escalations.
